

Tour: 220.....

Great Gobi Expedition

Itinerary:

General:

A journey for the friend of the desert. The tour that leads to the isolated regions of the Gobi Desert.

The south of Mongolia is dominated by the unique landscape of the Gobi Desert. The nucleus of the Mongolian empire, the junction of the Silk Road, China's stepping stone into space - The Gobi Desert has written history, yet in many areas it is still a Terra Incognita, an unknown world.

The dimensions of the Gobi Desert are gigantic. The desert is around 2,000 kilometres long and up to 1,000 kilometres wide, stretching from Ulan Bator in the north to the Kunlun Shan Mountains in the south, from the foothills of Tien Shan in the west to Manchuria in the east. This makes it the second largest desert in the world after the Sahara.

Due to its altitude, the Gobi is a cold desert and therefore cannot be compared to the Sahara or other deserts. However, the desert lover will find parallels in view of the endless, almost uninhabited expanses, the unique sand dunes and rugged rock formations. Once you have experienced the clear starlit nights in the Gobi, you won't forget them so quickly. This tour takes you straight into the Gobi, almost to the Chinese border. The tour plan also leads you to the discovery sites of dinosaur bones and offers you the opportunity to get to know the way of life of the nomads in the Gobi. Dinosaur finds are not the only witnesses in this region to suggest that the Gobi were once rich in vegetation. In different places on this journey they will find untouched rock drawings. For example at the Tevish Uul (Uul = mountain). But not only there we will find rock drawings, also these rock pictures can be found more often in the gorges of the Gobi.

The trip to the difficult to reach, meltwater formed canyon at the edge of the Nemengt Mountains is one of the highlights of this tour. Wind and sand gave the final touch to the Ca-nyon. The area around the Nemengt Mountains is very sparsely populated. Here you will hardly find any nomads left. From the Nemengt it goes over little frequented runways again into the northern part.

The Gobi Expedition will also give enough time to get in touch with the life of the nomads in the Gobi. You will experience the hospitality of this very scattered Noma-den. Our guides, but also the drivers, who often have relatives in the Gobi, will invite you and in a few moments you will be caught by the friendliness.

The life of these people is determined by nature and its rhythm. The camel is still the most reliable means of transport in the Gobi, supplying wool and meat. During our visits to the nomads, you will experience how the needs of these animals determine life. Memories of the film "The Weeping Camel" will be awakened.

This tour connects all interesting points of the Mongolian Gobi and gives a deep insight into the nomadic life in the Gobi. The tour has expedition character in wide parts, since it leads into very few inhabited areas of the Gobi. This also means that there may be short-term changes in the route due to the situation on the pistes.

In the dry climate, hardly any forests thrive, but all the more lush grassland. We will also use this day to look deeper into the nomadic life. Tsagaan Suwarga describes an area with an incredible play of colours in the desert landscape. Not far from Tsagaan Suwarga there is also a long rock formation that is covered with rock drawings. Overnight Tsagaan Suwarga in the region of Tsogt Ovoo in the Mongolian steppe.
Accommodation: according to your chosen category, Meals: B / L / D

8. Day One day relaxing at the Tsulganaij oases. Here you can swim in a small lake in the middle of the Gobi. The Tsulganaij oases are formed by a small river which ends here in a large depression. Depending on water level and rain, a more or less large lake forms in the middle. The shores are covered with reeds and are home to many bird species. The oases are uninhabited. This day is also a reserve day, as there can be delays in the journey due to poor road conditions.
Accommodation: according to your chosen category, Meals: B / L / D

9. Day Drive through the southern Gobi to the "Nemegt" Canyon. On the way to the uninhabited oases, we pass the only wells in the region. Naran Darts is a spring with very cold water and a meeting point for all the animals in the area. Hike through the canyon. This region in the Gobi is rarely visited and is still largely untouched.
